

Before noon the surveyor carefully checked every single measurement twice and wrote both readings in the logbook.

A later paragraph stays separate because the gap is wide.